Work experience

Front End Developer

Since January 2021 AppsDelivered Remote

In the beginning, I worked on an existing application, fixed bugs and added new features to the product. A few months later, I began to write the client part of a new application on my own, I was engaged in setting up the project from the very beginning (architecture, setting up WebPack, BitBucket Pipelines, etc.) I also looked for new employees, conducted interviews with candidates, was engaged in adaptation of employees to a new place of work.

I am looking for a new team due to the desire to work with more experienced developers than myself. In the current team, from the very first day, I was the only employee in the Front End position I started here from trainee level and I did not have the opportunity to gain experience from more experienced colleagues.
